AUSTRIA

ORGANISATION: Architektur 2000, Kinderspielplatz, TRK

PROJECT SITE: Refugee Center, Traiskirchen, Vogelspielplatz

OBJECTIVE:. This is a project that will address a basic need of children refugees. On many occasions the children in Traiskirchen are unaccompanied and left on their own with nowhere to go and nowhere to play. Overcoming the stigma of being refugees and integration into the bigger community has proven difficult. Having a suitable playground will help the children overcome all these and give them a place where they can play freely, be safe and simply be happy. This park will provide the traumatized and vulnerable refugee children a place where they can find normalcy in their lives and hopefully integrate faster into the community.

TURKEY

ORGANIZATION: Arab-Austria Women's Organization Project Balsam

PROJECT SITE: Syrian Refugee Center in Antakya and six villages in Turkey

OBJECTIVE: To provide much needed health care to women and children in 6 Northern Syrian Villages and nearby Syrian-Turkish borders. At the moment, The Amal Healing and Advocacy Center does not have a paediatrics section.

Project Balsam aims to transform the Amal Center into a polyclinic thereby allowing it to care for the growing number of children refugees. The nearest hospital, Emel Hospital, is a container hospital and has a limited capacity to provide the medical assistance required by the large community of Syrian refugees living in that region. Many of the Syrian refugee children are victims of bomb attacks and have suffered extensive injuries, burns of different degrees which have affected their circulatory, respiratory and digestive systems which in the case of children can be a matter of life and death. A good number of them are unaccompanied and are orphans.

The grant will be used to purchase medical equipments, scales for children, stethoscopes, beds, desk, chairs, disinfectant lamps as well as second hand laptops to set up an e-learning center because many of the children have not been able to continue their education.
